MYSTERY ABOUT
GOERING DEATH
STILL DEEPERPrison Officials Deny Any Wound Found In Which Poison Was Hid

FINAL NOTES SECRET

American Army Board Still Trying To Solve Details Of Gallows CheatingBY DUDLEY ANN HARMON
United Press Staff Correspondent NUERNBERG, Oct. 18.—Where did Hermann Goering hide the poison pellet with which he took his own life?The question emerged today as the major enigma of the dozen mysteries arising from the No. 2 Nazi's dramatic suicide in his Nuremberg jail cell a couple of hours before he was to have been led to death at the end of a hangman's noose.For a brief time amateur sleuths who have been racking their wits over the problem thought they had the answer when they were informed by what they regarded as a reliable source that an inch slit, long enough to hide the capsule, had been found within the voluminous folds of Goering's abdomen.Today that solution went glimmering.Lieut. Charles Roska, prison physician, knocked the solution into a cocked hat with the flat assertion that no abdominal wound or scratch had been found on Goering's fleshy paunch.How the earlier version started was uncertain. It had all the earmarks of verisimilitude. The earlier informant had claimed that the inch-long scratch had bled a little and that Goering's navel was filled with drying blood.Roska who personally examined the body said this was nonsense and left the correspondents turned sleuth right back at the starting point.Despite the collapse of the wound theory Roska did not rule out the possibility that the deadly capsule had been concealed by Goering in some fashion on his person.To inquiries as to the possibility of this he flatly refused to answer, saying that he could respond to these questions only with permission from Col. E. C. Andrus, prison commandant, who also denied the abdomen hiding story.No word came from the special three-man investigating commission named to discover if possible how Goering had cheated Allied justice by taking his own life. The commissioners, launching their inquiry a few moments after the suicide had been discovered, kept their silence today.What clues, if any, they have found, who they have questioned, whether suspicion is pointing to any particular individual—all those as well as most of the other questions in the case still went without answers.Prison officials, led by Andrus, clung to the theory that Goering had had the fatal poison cartridge

WITH FROST IS PROMISED AREAWindy and cooler weather Friday night will be followed by frost by Saturday morning according to the official forecast.The weatherman said that the overcast skies which momentarily threatened rainfall Friday would clear in late afternoon and evening.That Jupiter Pluvius did not single out the Pumpkin Show in Circleville for an attack Thursday night was proven by U. S.
Weather Bureau reports that a belt of rain 200 to 300 miles wide stretching from Chicago into New York state drenched the northern half of the nation Thursday night and Friday morning. Lower Michigan, northern Indiana, all of Ohio and Pennsylvania, and sections of New York were caught in the downpour. Fort Wayne, Ind., reported 2.18 inches of rainfall by 7:30 a. m. Friday.The official forecast says that Saturday will be fair and cool in the Circleville area and that Sunday will be fair and warmer.

Byrnes To Urge Firm Russian Policy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes will tell the American people tonight that if the world is to live in peace, the United States must deal with Russia with a policy of firmness tempered with patience.At the same time, it was learned, his nationwide broadcast will make clear to Moscow and the world that the United States cannot compromise her principles of fair play to all nations—large and small—in writing peace terms.Byrnes will speak from 10 to 10:30 p. m. EST. His address will be broadcast by NBC and some Mutual and independent stations.His 30-minute speech was planned originally as a report on the recent 79-day Paris peace conference. But, as though to underline the major portion of his speech to that topic, diplomatic sources said.The wiry, 67-year-old secretary arrived here by plane yesterday from Paris. With a wave of hishand and a broad grin, he reported "much progress" at the peace conference. An hour later he went to the White House for a personal report to President Truman.The remainder of the day he spent at his desk revising the text of his foreign policy address, drafted first in Paris.In a brief airport press conference under the wing of President Truman's personal plane, The Sacred Cow, Byrnes reiterated hope that public opinion will force ac-ceptance by the big four foreign ministers of the five treaty drafts prepared at Paris.He was expected to repeat that theme tonight as a reply to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's statement that many Paris decisions were unsatisfactory and that Russia would seek to undo some of the conference work when the foreign ministers meet Nov. 4 at New York.Meanwhile, President Truman announced that he will accompanyByrnes to New York to address the opening session of the United Nations general assembly next Wednesday. Thereafter Byrnes will return to his desk until the big four foreign ministers meet.Byrnes was understood to have discussed his address with U. S. ambassador to Russia, Walter Bedell Smith.Smith arrived here Wednesday on an unheralded trip home, his first in seven months. The ambassador told reporters his visitprimarily was to discuss embassy administrative problems, but that he would consult with Mr. Truman and other leaders before returning to Moscow.Byrnes, it was learned, may refer at least indirectly to the recent foreign policy squabble which led to the cabinet resignation of former secretary of commerce Henry A. Wallace. This was expected to lead to a new enunciation of the U. S. policy toward Russia, described as firmness with patience.MUSICIANS WILL on Watt street and the line of march will be Watt to Pinckney, to Scioto, to Main, to Court, to and Circleville high school bands will proceed to the football game at the high school athletic field, and the other bands will play at various locations in the downtown Pumpkin Show area.The baby parade was to be a highlight of the Friday afternoon Pumpkin Show activities. The procession was to form on Watt street and was to move at 3 p. m. on Watt to Pinckney, to Scioto, to Main, to Memorial Hall, to Pick-away, to Watt. Prizes were to be awarded the winners. The raining was to take place on Watt street. Music for the parade was to be provided by the South Solon High School Band.Intermittent rain Thursday night dampened the Pumpkin Show and held down the attendance at the big band festival at the high school athletic field.Despite the rainfall, however, the spectacle took place as per schedule and an estimated 2,000 spectators braved the elements and remained at the field throughout the 90-minute playing and marching of almost 600 young musicians from nine high schools.The participating bands were:

Class A, Circleville, Washington C. H., Lancaster, Jackson, Cambridge and Somerset; and in Class B, Scioto, Walnut, and Ashville.Each band played for 15 minutes on the field in the rain. Minor damage was caused to drum heads as a result of the rain.Although skies were overcast

DROP SLIGHTLY
AT BIG MARKETSLivestock shipments to the big meat packing centers today were slightly below yesterday's heavy run.Friday usually is a slack day in the livestock industry. Nevertheless, shipments to the nation's major markets today were much larger than last Friday, and they far exceeded the volume of the same date last year.All indications were that farmers were continuing to cull their herds to market their best animals before prices drop.Today's receipts at the 12 principal U. S. markets included 53,300 head of cattle, 17,400 calves, 45-900 hogs and 60,000 sheep. If the trend of the last few days continues, these estimates will be exceeded by actual shipments.Yesterday's estimated receipts were 58,000 cattle, 20,000 calves, 112,000 hogs and 64,300 sheep. Actual shipments, however, were much heavier. Hogs yesterday totaled at least 177,000.Receipts a week ago totaled only 9,192 cattle, 4,686 calves, 4,037 hogs and 36,980 sheep. A year ago the total was 15,734 cattle, 7,654 calves, 17,032 hogs and 35,786 sheep.So far this week the major markets have received 332,400 head of cattle, 87,000 calves, 278,100 hogs and 326,400 sheep. During the same period last week they received 204,733 cattle, 63,816 calves, 36,610 hogs and 265,681 sheep.A year ago for the same period the receipts totaled 314,520 cattle, 88,969 calves, 111,744 hogs and 281,681 sheep.OPA UPS PRICES OF JAM, JELLY,
OTHER SPREADSControls Taken Off More Items; Most Food To Be Freed By Nov. 1WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—OPA took a $6,000,000 poke at the nation's sweet tooth today by raising prices of jams, jellies, preserves and apple butter.The increase will be a cent a pound on apple butter and two cents a pound on the others. OPA estimated the action, necessitated by higher costs to industry, would boost the nation's annual food bill by $6,000,000.OPA also granted a 35 to 40 per cent increase on men's low-price plain white print cloth and lawn handkerchiefs and a 24 per cent boost on work gloves. The price of bronze and copper insect screen cloth, used to protect homes, hospitals and some business establishments, went up 13.5 per cent.Meanwhile, OPA continued its rapid fire decontrol actions in line with President Truman's speedup policy, and officials estimated that ceilings on almost all major foods and many commodities and services will be off by Nov. 1.They ruled out early decontrol, however, on rents, building materials, new homes, autos and other acutely scarce commodities. The major foods which they feel may remain under control after Nov. 1 include oranges, bananas, flour and flour products and of course, sugar.Ceilings were removed today from harnesses and parts, saddlery and riding equipment, whips and crops, collar pads, saddle pads and blankets, horse blankets, saddle statement that he was the Kremlin activities in the United States.Eisler, alias Hans Berger, was identified yesterday by Louis wife had been scheduled to sail for Leipzig on Friday, but their exit planation by the state department after their baggage had been placed aboard ship.The Worker quoted Eisler as saying the charge that he was the

"Wally's" Jewels Are Stolen

THIS JEWEL CASE of the Duchess of Windsor has Britain's Scotland Yard in a dither, because it has been emptied of the duchess' magnificent jewels, valued at "some thousands of pounds" by thieves who broke into the secluded Ednam lodge at Sunningdale, England, where the Windsors are staying. The duchess is shown receiving the jewel case at a ceremony in Nassau when she was the governor's first lady in the British West Indies. (International Soundphoto)Political Reporters, Polls Predict GOP GainBY LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Polls and the reports of roving newspaper reporters forecast Republican congressional gains today as the general election campaign approached the final fortnight.Republican partisans claim the house of representatives for sure and say they have a chance to win control of the senate. Democratic partisans insist they will maintain control of both houses of congress.The political alignment as of today is as follows: Senate: 56 Democrats; 38 Republicans; 1 Progressive; 1 vacancy.House: 237 Democrats; 192 Republicans; 1 Progressive; 1 American Labor; 4 vacant.The senate vacancy was created by the resignation of Warren R.
Austin, Vermont Republican, who has been named United States representative to the United Nations. The Progressive seat was held by Sen. Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, who sought nomination this year as a Republican and was defeated in the primaries.

A net gain of 11 seats would give the Republicans 49 and majority control of the senate. A net gain of 26 seats would give the GOP 218 and majority control of the house. Majority parties almost always lose some seats to the minority in off-year elections. Under the spectacular leadership of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democrats reversed that in 1934 by increasing their house membership from 313 to 322, and they also gained senate seats in that off year.But the majority trend normally is down in off-year polling and almost inevitably will be down this year. The Democratic nation-

Kerr, 15, Marion, overturned on U. S. Route 23 one mile south of Circleville, Monday, after the car in Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, to which he was removed Tuesday from Berger hospital, Circleville.

He sustained a brain injury in addition to numerous lacerations and abrasions. Miss Kerr suffered multiple lacerations and abrasions and was removed from Berger hospital, Monday night to her home at Mar-

HUNT FOR CAT
JEWEL THIEFInternational Ring Of Jewel Thieves Is Credited With Taking Duchess' GemsLONDON, Oct. 18.—Scotland Yard today broadened its hunt for a cat burglar fleeing with $100-000 worth of the Duchess of Windsor's jewels into a worldwide search for operatives of an international gang of gem thieves.The famous yard threw its best brains into one of the greatest manhunts of modern times, at the same time sealing off the British Isles with a tight cordon through which they hoped the Windsor jewels had not penetrated.Hour after hour messages crackled out over the continent to the French surete generale and other continental arms of the law, warning that the Windsor robbery looked like the work of big-time operatives who robbed European societies of millions of dollars in gems between the wars.Estimates of the value of the missing gems ranged from $80,000, by the Windsors' attorney, to $2-000,000, by the London Daily Mail.Police based their main hope on $120,000 worth of the jewels which the thieves apparently dropped while escaping. Fingerprint experts worked over the stones for hours, but would not say whether any prints had been discovered.Yard investigators indicated that warnings to ports and airfields might have been quick enough to seal the jewels inside England, but they were taking no chances. Messages flashed all night from Yard headquarters to pawn-brokers and dealers all over the world. Police headquarters in all continental countries were asked to watch all known jewel "fences."Twenty-four hours of intensive from the Birmingham, Ala., office of the federal reserve bank.The newspaper gave few details to support its "scoop" that only $10,000 remained from the $100,000

Of Draftees
Speeded UpWASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The Army estimated today its move to speed up discharge of draftees will save the nation approximately $50,000,000 between now and the end of the year.Maj. Gen. W. S. Paul, war department director of personnel, said all draftees taken in during 1945 have been ordered discharged by Dec. 31. The order affected about 235,000 men. Another 200-000 are on terminal leave or enroute home for discharge.The Army had 1,745,000 men on Sept. 30, Paul said, and will be cut down to 1,310,000 on Dec. 31. He said this was a part of the drive to reach a goal of an all-volunteer Army. It must be down to 1,070-000 by July 1, 1947.Reliable Army sources said the speed-up of discharges was an economy move dictated by President Truman's effort to balance the national budget.The military budget for the 1946-47 fiscal year is $7,263,452-400. The Army estimates it will spend about $5,060,000,000 but says part of the funds were appropriated under a previous fiscal budget.The Army does not believe it can cut its expenditures much below $5,000,000,000 for the fiscal period ending next June 30. This estimate is based on the present touched off an outbreak of violent reprisals.The arsonists overpowered the watchman of the Empire cafe and set fire to one whole floor of the establishment. Firemen struggled to bring the flames under control.

There were unconfirmed reports that police had questioned several soldiers in connection with the in-killed last night, reportedly by Jewish Stern gang extremists, and earlier three British soldiers were wounded seriously when their car struck an explosive mine.Police also reported the murder of an Arab—the fourth to be killed in the past ten days. All the murdered Arabs had been involved in the sale of land to Jews. They were believed to have been killed by flow Arabs who have sworn to "exterminate the traitors who helped to build a Jewish national

DERBY

Derby W. C. T. U. met Tuesday of last week in the evening at the Derby school auditorium.

The president, Mrs. Ilo Creamer called the meeting to order and the song "America" was sung after which the scripture was read by Mrs. M. C. Edwards and was followed by prayer by Rev. Welser.

A moving picture "That Boy Joe" was shown and brought out the idea of what can happen to our boys and girls if they are neglected in the home and are allowed undirected privileges with the thought that we are being good to them. After the picture Alf Crombie, speaker of the evening, was introduced and gave a very interesting talk on the youth problems of the day. At the end of his talk three teen age boys, and five girls came forward and signed the pledge, to abstain from liquor and tobacco. An invitation was then given for new members was given to which two men as honorary members and two women responded. Meeting then closed with W. C. T. U. benediction to meet with Mrs. John McPherson on second Tuesday in November.

Chris Marmet was taken to White Cross hospital last Saturday for observation and treatment.

Political Reporters, Polls Predict GOP Gain

(Continued from Page One) al committee makes no mistake of how the house and senate will be divided after the election except to say that both will remain Democratic.

Republicans claim they will gain 30 to 50 seats in the house. Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R. O., Republican campaign director, says the election is in the bag and promises plenty of excitement when the new congress meets.

"We will open every session of the house with a prayer and close it with a probe," Brown told the United Press. "We believe in the old gospel hymn, 'Let the Sunlight In.' The American people have a right to know how their money has been spent and how their government has been conducted. These things have not yet been completely exposed."

Brown said Republican house investigators—assuming that the Republicans control the house—will open up a dozen or more investigations, some on subjects already explored. Among the house inquiries forseen by Brown were: war spending; the international highway linking North and South America; the Canal pipeline project; the war shipping administration; the war assets administration; reconstruction finance corporation loans; and government operations in general.

MYSTERY ABOUT GOERING DEATH STILL DEEPER

Prison Officials Deny Any Wound Found In Which Poison Was Hid

Almost overlooked in the continued search for clues was the fact that Goering left three notes, discovered in an envelope clutched to his breast.

What did these notes say? Of that there has been no hint. Were they a last message to the world, a final appeal to the German people, a scornful taunt to Allied justice?

That like most of the other secrets of Nuernberg lay locked in official channels. Even Andrus who saw the notes—one of which was addressed to him—claimed he did not know what they said. They were written in German, he insisted, and he does not read German.

The notes were turned over to translators but nothing has been heard of them since. Presumably, the notes did not reveal how Goering carried out his suicide. If they had, it was pointed out, authorities would not still be floundering around in what gave all the outward appearance of futile locking of the barn door after the horse had been stolen.

MEXICAN BEEF COMING
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—The quarantine on Mexican beef ended today, promising further relief of the U. S. meat shortage. A quota of 500,000 Mexican beef cattle is permitted to enter this country each year. Imports were suspended last June, however, pending an investigation to determine if Mexican herds were infected by hoof and mouth disease.

OPA UPS PRICES OF JAM, JELLY, OTHER SPREADS

All industries were not entirely sold on OPA's announced policy to speed up decontrol. A Washington representative of the restaurant association said his industry was going ahead with its decontrol petitions, even though OPA is expected to consider restaurant prices in its widespread Nov. 1 decontrol action. The petition will be filed about Oct. 30.

OPA expects few other formal industry petitions between now and the first of November.

OPA officials are still in a huddle with the agriculture department over the decontrol of flour and bakery products, including bread.

OPA wants to decontrol flour and baked goods, but agriculture's export commitments for relief stand in the way of a final decision.

In this connection, additional allotments of U. S. wheat and wheat milled into flour have been granted to Brazil, Bolivia, Peru and Uruguay. The flour countries were described as "in dire need" of wheat, partly, government sources said, because Argentina recently cut off its wheat shipments to them.

Discharge Of Draftees Speeded Up

Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson announced that the Army had passed its recruiting goal of 1,000,000 volunteers on Oct. 7. But he said the Army would require approximately 40,000 men a month of new volunteers to meet commitments.

Gen. Paul said the success of the recruiting program would determine whether the Army would be forced to resume drafting men on Jan. 1, 1947. A draft holiday has been declared for the remainder of this year. The draft act expires March 31, 1947 and Paul said he was uncertain whether it would be necessary to request extension.

BUDENZ NAMES RED DIRECTOR

The New York World-Telegram broke the story of Elsie's identity yesterday and said Elsie's sister, Ruth Fischer, had confirmed it. Budenz later said Elsie was the man to whom he referred in a Sunday radio address in which he said, one man, unknown to the average Communist, gave party orders in the United States.

The Daily Worker quoted Elsie as saying "I have a sister, Ruth Fischer, a Trotskyist, who runs a gutter sheet which was denounced every anti-fascist as a 'Stalinist' from Roosevelt on down."

Budenz said today he would tell all he knows about Elsie when he testifies before the house un-American activities committee next month.

Budenz, now an assistant professor of economics at Fordham university, identified Elsie yesterday as the secret chief agent of the Communist party in the United States. Budenz described Elsie, alias Hans Berger, as the man who gets his orders from the Kremlin and passes them on to party members in the United States.

He said he was prepared to present documentary evidence to the house committee to support his charges.

Palestine's internal situation appeared to be deteriorating rapidly as a result of the cafe fire and the murder of the British police inspector.

SUBSTITUTE FOR SOAP MAY HELP END SHORTAGE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18—The nation-wide soap shortage may be ended by a new soap substitute made from sulfur-treated petroleum, Dr. Chester M. Suter, associate director of the Sterling Winthrop Research Institute, Rensselaer, N. Y., said last night.

Suter told the Philadelphia section of the American Chemical society that sulfonated petroleum compounds were used in Germany and other axis countries during the war to produce substitutes for soap and other synthetic cleansing agents.

Mersol, a product obtained by the action of sulfur dioxide and chlorine on a paraffin hydrocarbon, may be converted into a soap which has "excellent wetting qualities, a very good foam formation, great stability in hard-water and high washing power," he said.

YARD BROADENS HUNT FOR CAT JEWEL THIEF

inquiry has led to the belief that the theft was committed by a single, agile burglar wearing gloves. Two or three "outside" men were believed to have aided in the getaway — one at the wheel of an automobile and one or two posted as lookouts on the grounds of Ednam Lodge, in suburban Sunningdale, where the theft occurred Wednesday evening.

The daring "cat burglar" was believed to have found the 18-inch black jewel case on the Duchess' dressing table. At that time the box is believed to have contained about $220,000 worth of jewels, according to reliable authorities. The remainder of the fabulous Windsor collection, valued at $1,000,000 in 1944 had been placed in a safety deposit box when the Windsors arrived in England from Paris.

Once outside the lodge, having left through the same window near the drainpipe by which he entered, the thief was believed to have met his accomplices. A hasty examination was made, it was believed, and the thieves then decided what gems to keep. The selection apparently was made so hurriedly that one earring was taken, but its mate was left on the grass.

BROWN AND TAFT BLAST DEMOS IN NEW ATTACKS

Republicans Plan To Keep Reminding Voters Of
U. S. Shortages

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—Republicans aren't letting the Democrats forget the meat scarcity or any other shortage in their campaign to win the November congressional elections.

In a radio speech last night, Rep. Clarence J. Brown, of Ohio, Republican campaign director, made it clear that GOP strategy calls for concentration on the meat issue with a flanking attack on other scarcities.

He banged away at the housing shortage and charged that race track and night club construction is "booming" at the expense of housing for veterans.

Brown asserted that President Truman's meat decontrol speech was "misleading, unfair and political," he added.

"Mr. Truman devoted most of his speech to the meat shortage, which in late weeks has become political dynamite. He failed to say much about the many other serious shortages which exist today, here in a country with the greatest productive capacity in the world, more than a year after the shooting stopped."

The President, Brown went on, sought to convey the idea that meat shortages really did not develop until July but "he forgot to tell you how little meat could be purchased last Winter and Spring—except in the black market."

"He did not remember to mention that meat became scarce soon after the bungling bureaucrats of the administration placed such high ceiling prices on grain and such low ceiling prices on meat and livestock as to make it unprofitable to produce the meat we needed—or how the department of agriculture ordered a reduction in livestock breeding and feeding in order that more grain could be shipped abroad."

Brown also criticized administration handling of the shortages of sugar, shortening, soap, paper tissues "and many other necessities of life."

CARBONDALE, Ill., Oct. 18—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R., O.), possible 1948 Republican presidential candidate, told a GOP rally last night that the Democratic party was split on "a bitter difference in principle" and "no one can tell" what its future policies will be.

Taft, speaking on behalf of Illinois Republican congressmen, said that the Democrats were "squarely divided" between those favoring and those opposing "more and more government regulation and spending."

He said that the thinking of the one group was dominated by the CIO political action committee, which he said was ruled by Communists, and the other was comprised of more conservative elements, chiefly from the South.

"For a long time President Truman wavered between these two groups but in the final decision he has endorsed every PAC program," Taft said.

The Ohio senator said that the election of a Republican congress and a Republican president offered "the only hope of developing a program of reconversion, based on American principles of liberty and equal justice to all."

The flag of the U. S. was fixed in 1818, except for the disposition of the stars.

NAVY, MARINES TO USE JEEP UNDER WATER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—The versatile jeep is now being turned into an underwater vehicle.

The Navy and Marine Corps plan to adapt some 1,000 jeeps for underwater operation with "deep water fording kits" made by the Willys-Overland Motor Corp. The kits, costing about $1,000 each, will permit a jeep to operate in water one foot higher than its hood for 15 minutes. Chief use will be in fording streams and in beach landings.

A demonstration was held recently at Beverly Beach, Md., on the Chesapeake Bay.

Marine Sgt. Roy Harmon, Washington, D. C., clad in a one-piece rubber suit, maneuvered the tiny truck at speeds up to 10 miles an hour with only his head above the water.

Harmon splashed the jeep into the shallow water, drove it about and then buzzed up and down the beach to demonstrate its versatility.

The underwater jeep will be equipped with periscope-like intake and exhaust manifolds. They also will have waterproof distributors and ignition coils, aviation-type spark plugs and an aluminum carburetor housing.

INTERNATIONAL MANNERS

SIR George Sansom, a Briton addressing an American audience in a Council on World Affairs, takes this view of the Japanese problem. "Our interest in promoting a democratic government," he says, "presupposes an obligation to furnish that government with the materials by which Japan's economy can be constructed. Otherwise Japan may be forced again into becoming an aggressor nation."

There is still plenty of chance for argument as to just how far Japan was impelled to war, by necessity, or what seemed necessity, and how far Japanese leaders and followers were by a desire for conquest. Americans are still convinced that their cause was just, and that Japan as a nation chose the way of crime, of her own volition. Probably most Japanese are still inclined to believe that their procedure was justified. And the technique of going to war, or drifting into war, is still a clumsy business.

What is needed now and hereafter, in such matters, is the technique of friendship and cooperation among the nations. And in this business of making and holding international friendships, friends are worth more than victories in battle.

CUPID EN ROUTE

THERE seems to be something about air travel which just naturally makes men sentimental. Cupid flies high, wide and handsome, with the result that air lines have a difficult time in holding their hostesses. Marriages ensue quickly.

But there is a solution to every problem. The air waves might be supplied with girls all right in their way, intelligent and all that, and good conversationalists, but ignoring the beauty requirement, just as would be done in other lines of business. There would be no harm in trying it, anyway. As matters stand, the air lines are paying about $700 apiece to train the girls, and then they just get married, on the average, in six months.

Or perhaps the air lines will have to take a long look and realize that they are developing a handsome and air-minded new generation.

REALTY TROUBLES

THE real estate market generally, in its recent manifestations, has been characterized as "crazy," and with considerable justification. In most areas values have been skidding in ways that certainly don't make sense. First market values were forced away up, and latterly they have been shaky and undecided.

One thing sure is that homes are greatly needed, and it is going to take time to get the nation properly housed. But reputable brokers are wisely and decently telling people not to get unduly excited, and not to pay much more than a house is worth. Reputable and experienced experts in a given locality can generally be depended on to judge whether a price is reasonable. In a case of serious doubt, it is well to seek such disinterested advice.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—Mr. Truman abandoned meat management with an audible sigh of reluctance and another bite at the well-gnawed legs of Senator Taft—not mentioning more than half his own Democratic congressmen who voted with Taft. The inside story goes that only the politician Bob Hannegan and the Opalst Paul Porter stood with the President in his final reluctance—and this, despite the officially circulated story that Hannegan favored the action taken. All the official story really means is that Hannegan now favors the action taken—naturally—yet it was really he and Porter who stood their CIOish ground until the last. They stood when all the rest of the cabinet had turned against continuing the price control in the face of famine—Agriculture Secretary Anderson taking the lead in believing the price control system could no longer be defended in the face of famine and with the election only three weeks away.

But it was AFL's William Green, and not the "interests" (the quotes are Mr. Truman's), who broke the back of price controls. Although his remarks were obscurely printed, Green opened his convention with a demand for exactly what Truman did a few days later. In leadership of the larger half of labor, his had been the most powerful political pressure for keeping the controls during the Summer and earlier. With Green changing and the Democratic party relying in a close election upon the union votes in the cities, the administration simply could no longer hold to its position with only the CIO supporting it.

When this necessity became so obvious as to bring forward the communistic-fringed Senator Pepper, leader of the senate fight for OPA, with a suggestion that perhaps control should be abandoned, there was nothing for Mr. Truman to do but compose a political speech putting the best possible face on an outright surrender of position.

So the President was simply high-pressed by desertions in his own ranks to take the action before election. It was predicted he would, several times in this column, last time Sept. 27: "my guess is that perhaps a week or two before election the price ceilings will be relaxed to get the farmer vote."

How firm a face the President contrived to maintain in this meat relaxation will no doubt be the subject of political interpretation. To most objective reporters here, his speech was weak. He tried to blame the predicament upon a "few reckless selfish men," the Republicans in congress who are running for re-election. But only a reporter with a sensationally short memory could forget that most of the Democrats had voted with Senator Taft on nearly all points of OPA. While nominally he denounced only Republicans, actually he also denounced, while surrendering, to a majority of his own democrats and these are men also facing the voters now—although Mr. Truman is not.

To tie these men up with a cabal to "scuttle price-controls" and "take care of special interests they wanted to enrich" may sound good enough to an unwary and ignorant voter, but not many of Mr. Truman's party candidates will use his speech as a campaign document.

Trouble After an Operation

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

FOLLOWING operations, a condition known as pulmonary embolism may develop. This is a condition in which a small bit of coagulated blood gets into the blood stream and is carried to the lung.

Although several methods of preventing this condition have become available during the last few years, according to Drs. Conrad R. Lam and Donald H. Hooker of Detroit, the number of deaths resulting from this disorder is still too large.

Study of Ages

In studying cases which occurred in a series of over 100,000 operations during a 21-year period they found that pulmonary embolism occurred more frequently in men than in women, and most often in the older patients. They noted that it occurred only once in persons under 20 years of age. Those between 40 and 50 years of age were most frequently affected, while fatal embolism was noted most often in those past 60.

Operations on the abdomen were most often responsible. Head and neck operations did not produce pulmonary embolism. Other operations in which this condition frequently develops are removal of the gallbladder, removal of the prostate gland, the uterus, hernia operations, and removal of the appendix.

The first sign of pulmonary embolism is pain in the chest. The spitting up of blood is also another frequent symptom. X-ray examination of the chest is, of course, helpful in making a diagnosis. The attacks tend to come on in most cases on the sixth and eleventh days following operation.

Preventing the Condition

There are two substances which may be of value in preventing pulmonary embolism. These are heparin and dicoumarin. Both of these substances have the effect of slowing down the clotting of the blood. However, it would not seem advisable that these substances be given to every patient who has an operation.

If a patient has blood clots in any of the veins, such as those of the legs, prior to the operation, it would appear advisable that one of these two substances be employed. Tying off such thrombosed veins prior to operation may also be of value.

Getting the patient up early after operation may be another helpful measure in preventing pulmonary embolism. In fact, this probably offers the most promise as a preventive measure which can be easily applied to most cases.

"No," he smiled. "Merely a perfectionist."

"I'm leaving you," she said abruptly. "I think not. I would contest a divorce, Valentine, even if you were able to obtain the necessary funds. I could name . . . your refugee friend, perhaps. Or Serge. There are others. You shall remain here. You have not deluded me. Your affairs have their origin in vanity. You covet admiration, skate superbly on thin ice. You are too enamored of your person to permit its possession, yet too self-confident, you have not always been discreet. Certain of your admirers are in straitened circumstances and would testify for a price. Some men consider such testimony an accolade. Besides, it would recompense them for your failure to follow through. So, you'll remain with me. At my age, it cannot be for long."

"You were white," she said huskily. "You'll live. Your heart is sound. Dr. Lansing told me, at the time of the accident. Barry said, on the train, that you'd told Abby it wasn't, she'd repeated that to him. Oh, your heart is bad enough . . . but not that way. I told him what Lansing had said."

"That is immaterial now," he rose. "Reconcile yourself," he advised. "You have diversions. We understand each other, and on that basis will get along very well."

"But why?" she asked, reduced to simplicity. "You dislike me . . . you always have. I know it now. I have no wish to lose face," he answered. "My daughter has left me. My wife must not. Your hands are tied. You don't want a scandal. Not that you would consider your parents or this community. But you have acquired some prestige. And your only authoritative passion is for luxury. You'll remain."

"She would; a young woman, with unlimited charge accounts . . . waiting for him to die, the gray, indestructible old man."

She went, without another word, in defeat, and Wallace walked through to the gallery. He stayed there, for a time, looking at his paintings. He still had them.

From his apartment Barry talked to Craig, Emerson in Sea Island. He admitted finally, "You may last chance. Have you any idea where she might have gone?"

"Yes," said Craig, "but why should I tell you? Because, I suppose, I care about her. I'll go back after a while to my job, my prospects, and that lunatic asylum. I'd like to know Abby's out of it for good. If she went north, Lambert, it was to Mrs. Gambel."

It was very late when Abby reached the Vermont village, off the main line. It was cold. Recently it had snowed. She asked for directions and walked the short distance to a small house on a side street. The hills beyond were dark.

Inside WASHINGTON

Anderson Wanted Controls
Of Meat Many Weeks Ago

Secretary of Agriculture Lacked Freedom of Action

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Although Congress gave Agriculture Secretary Anderson complete authority over price controls on food, Anderson was bogged down by many pressures on the decision of whether to decontrol meat once more. Congress, in extending the price control act, gave Anderson supreme power to decide how long the government should keep a hand in the price of food.

But when the meat shortage arose Anderson, an advocate of decontrol, was besieged by others in President Truman's high command who wanted government controls over meat to continue.

Anderson was known to favor immediate decontrol of meats in order to get production up and to supply retail meat markets with chops, steaks and roasts in the shortest possible time.

But, the secretary told intimates, he lacked the freedom of action needed to clean up the situation. Reporters recalled that Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, when he occupied the same chair Anderson now holds, had ideas for action but no power to carry them out because Marvin Jones was FDR's choice for War Food Administrator with the big stick over food matters.

Although the president finally bowed to public pressure, if Anderson had had his way, there undoubtedly would have been meat for practically all of the nation's housewives long before this.

● A FOUR-STAR BET: That President Truman will accept the in-itation to address the United Nations assembly in New York Oct. 23, and that he will speak within a day or so of Secretary of State Byrnes, who will have returned from the Paris peace conference.

Both Mr. Truman and Byrnes will emphasize what they will describe as the necessity of keeping the Democrats in control of Congress during the treaty-making stage. Their addresses will mark again and again to the late President Roosevelt, his principles and the role which America must play in the post-war world.

However, informed quarters in Washington are skeptical that this strategy will work. They point out that the administration's foreign relations policy, as worked out by the president and Byrnes, already has the endorsement of the Republican party. It also has an Achilles heel in the Wallace affair, which the Democrats will attempt to gloss over.

The voters, edging ever nearer the Nov. 5 balloting day, are regarded as certain to weigh with great care their meatless dinner.

● OBSERVERS OF congressional attitudes saw a lot of significance in the statement of Senator Pepper (D) of Florida that he is beginning to wonder if all price controls should not be scrapped. Pepper has been one of the Senate's foremost exponents of a "planned economy" and centralized governmental control of the nation's business and industry.

So news editors blinked their eyes and looked again when they read his statement suggesting that perhaps the nation should be allowed to go through what he said would be a painful and inflationary process of readjusting its business to natural laws of supply and demand.

Capitol Hill observers immediately saw it as a signpost marking a sharper turn in the congressional swing back to a free economy.

If such government-control advocates as Pepper are turning their backs on regulation, they say, it means that New Deal foes are going to have a field day when Congress reconvenes, with a general scrapping of all kinds of regulations over the national economy.

BIG NINE TEAMS WILL BE BUSY ON SATURDAY

Ohio State Favored Over Purdue; Michigan Meets Tough Northwestern

CHICAGO, Oct. 18—Michigan and Northwestern, the only two teams to escape defeat within Western Conference ranks during the early weeks of the season, meet tomorrow at Ann Arbor in a contest that tops a crowded Big Nine schedule.

In other games Indiana seeks to keep alive its title hopes as it meets Iowa at Bloomington; Wisconsin opposes Illinois at Champaign; and Purdue faces Ohio State at Columbus. Minnesota goes outside the league to entertain Wyoming. Undefeated Notre Dame has an open date.

Michigan and Northwestern each has won two conference games. The Wolverines downed Indiana 21 to 0 and edged Iowa 14 to 7, while Northwestern bowled over Wisconsin 25 to 0 and topped Minnesota 14 to 7.

Michigan proved it deserves a ranking among the nation's most powerful teams by its brilliant showing against Army last week. It is highly improbable the Wolverines can be keyed as high for Northwestern, but the depth and experience of the Michigan talent still appears sufficient to provide an edge.

While the losing team will not be eliminated automatically from the Big Nine title chase, its championship chances will be dimmed considerably.

YAWKEY GIVES BONUS CHECKS TO BOSTON SOX

BOSTON, Oct. 18—Each member of the Boston Red Sox was richer by one pay check today, the personally presented gift of owner Tom Yawkey to his players "for services rendered" during the past season.

Publicity Director Ed Doherty of the Sox said that the checks were for an undisclosed percentage of each player's annual salary and that Yawkey gave them because "he felt that the players had done an exceptionally good job, and he wanted to share with them the profits of the season."

In return, Capt. Bobby Dyer presented Manager Joe Cronin with a sterling silver cigar case on behalf of the team.

Cronin, commenting on the rumormongers that Boston was seeking outfielder Johnny Lindell from the New York Yankees, said "I've never made it a policy to trade players on other clubs, but there is no doubt that Lindell would fit in perfectly with our plans."

Ted Williams has been the Sox' regular left fielder and Dom DiMaggio has been steady in center, but Boston used six players in right field during the season.

Cincinnati And Ohio U. To Meet In Headliner; Most Teams Busy

'CAT' BATTLE TOPS OHIO BILL

Cincinnati And Ohio U. To Meet In Headliner; Most Teams Busy

By JOHN G. DIETRICH
United Press Sports Writer

It has been a long time since an Ohio college team appeared in a post-season bowl game, but such an appearance could be in the works at Cincinnati this weekend when Cincinnati's bearcats tangle with Ohio University's Bobcats.

The fur flies in this one—last year Ohio U. won a 20-19 decision—but this season the game has several added attractions.

Currently Cincinnati is rated at the top of the Ohio College picture, still riding somewhat on the prestige of that victory over Indiana. Ohio U. has won three games against lesser opponents with no trouble. Both are loaded, and either might attract the attention of bowl scouts with a rousing victory Saturday.

Ohio State's second western conference tilt of the season, with Purdue as the opponent, will attract a crowd predicted at more than 75,000 for the state's top attendance.

There's a pair of sure-fire thrillers promised for northern Ohio fans, too, in the Baldwin-Wallace vs. Western Reserve and Bowling Green at Kent State games.

B-W was held to a scoreless tie by a game Ohio Wesleyan club last week; Reserve also has a tie and two victories. This battle for Cleveland supremacy has all the super charged elements of a neighborhood brawl.

Kent State's apparently potent but still untested Golden Flashes, who have laid claim to being a new football power in northern Ohio, have their work cut out to make that stick against Bowling Green.

The Bee-Gees were off to an unimpressive start, but held muscular Miami to a 6-0 decision last week. Trevor Rees' Kent club has outscored three opponents 99 to 0, and has piled up 1,643 yards from scrimmage.

A game with a revenge motif will send Ohio Wesleyan to Oberlin to help celebrate the Yeoman's homecoming—and try to snap a ten-game Oberlin winning streak.

Wesleyan gained heart from that scoreless tie with Baldwin-Wallace, and has hopes of vengeance for the 33-0 pasting Oberlin's marine-laden powerhouse dished out a year ago.

Aside from the Ohio State-Purdue game, Ohio teams are booked against six out-of-state opponents

BEULAH SEASON ENDS SATURDAY WITH OHIO RACE

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 18—Beulah Park rings down the curtain on the Ohio racing season Saturday when the program will be headlined by the second running of the Ohio championship at the route distance of 1 1/16 miles.

Top routers of the Ohio racing season will compete for the $5000 purse. These probably will include the Warner and Hathaway Stable's Leaping Moose, Al Wellman's Little Monarch, Anthony Graffagnini's Rip Away, A. E. Gardner's Tommy Chic, Mrs. Warren Yarbber's Just Beans, I. J. Collins' Volo Sun and Earl Skeldon's Royal Stev.

Racing at the current meeting has been extremely formful. During the first 19 of the 25 days, the form followed compiled the impressive average of .431.

In front in the jockey race is Apprentice George Monson, the promising rider from New Orleans. Definitely in a three-way battle for second position and still possessing chances to overhaul Monson are Anthony Licata, Jack O'Day and Colin Knisley. Al Wellman, Monson's contract employer, leads the owners and trainers.

This week, all but one of Ohio soil. Earlham will play at Wilmington, Grove City of Pennsylvania at Hiram, St. Vincent's of Latrobe, Pa., at Youngstown, Detroit Tech at Cedarville, and Canterbury College of Indiana at Muskingum. Bluffton will travel to Manchester College in Indiana.

Defiance College, one of the four unbeaten and untied teams in the state, will meet Findlay in what could easily be the end of a perfect record. Findlay has Len Watson and several other high-powered backs, and has lost only to unbeaten Mt. Union.

That same Mt. Union team will defend its unbeaten mark against Akron in a post-war renewal of an old rivalry. Xavier, with its first victory on the books, a 7-6 edge over John Carroll, will tackle Miami.

In other games, Otterbein will play at Ohio Northern, John Carroll will meet Case at Shaw stadium in Cleveland, Capital will play at Heidelberg, Marietta will travel to Kenyon, Dayton will invade Toledo's Glass Bowl, Ashland will go to Wittenberg, and Denison will renew one of Ohio's oldest collegiate rivalries at Wooster.

INDIANAPOLIS—It might have been a golfer's paradise, but it was just the opposite for the greenskeepers at an Indianapolis golf course. During the night, vandals added some 12 extra cups to the regulation one on the

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

CONSIDER EVERY CLUE. LACKADAISICAL players are prone to act as if the location of secondary cards, like queens, jacks and tens, is a matter entirely in the hand of the fates, and can only be guessed. More conscientious calculators consider that nearly always there is some indication that a card is more likely to be in one place than another. No matter how faint may be such a clue, they weigh it to determine their course of action, whereas the careless, blundering type just bulls along and hopes for the best.

Peculiarly, that identical bidding was done at two tables of a seven-table social duplicate, whereas at all other tables East and West got into either small or grand slam at clubs and took all the tricks.

At the two 5-Hearts tables the play began the same, with the club K ruffed by the heart 3 and the next two tricks going to the heart A and K. Then came the sole variation. One declarer led the spade 2, which fanned the 8, which lost to the 10, whereupon the spade A and diamond A set the contract. The other declarer led the same spade 2 to the fourth trick, but fanned the J, which forced the A. After that the defense would have got no more tricks, if East had not laid down his diamond A, as spades would have furnished discards of South's diamonds.

The successful declarer reckoned that West probably held the Q of either spades or diamonds for his single free bid, and that the spade was the more likely, since East probably had the diamond honor for his first call. Anyway, as he played it, he was probably safe unless East had the spade Q, whereas the other declarer was surely down promptly if East had either the Q or 10.
